M'CARTHY'S HOME RUN AFTER TWO WERE OUT DID THE WORK.

Indianapolis Defeats Kansas City in One of the Most Thrilling Games of the Season.

Oh, Mr. McCarthy! Good morning, my dear sir, to you. Oh, Mr. McCarthy! There's no other mon like you. There's something magnetic about youhe people all greet you by storm. McCarthy; we're proud for to call you a

For you're a great mon at the bat in the tinth innin' when the score is tied wid two men out and all thot is needed is a home run an' you wus the mon to

The composite opinion of all who witnessed the defeat of Kansas City yesterday is that it was a very large game. For Kansas City the event was most sad. It is advanced by an enthusiast, one of those free-born Americans with ginger-pop exuberance of spirits, who delight to hang out of the boxes and yell "robber" at the umpire until they are purple behind the ears, that Indianapolis has not lost a game this season on "ladies' day," and yesterday was another ladies' day. It was also Mc-Carthy's day. Sharsig's men broke the record by making it six straight victories. This was due to McCarthy more than to any other one man. He was the most prominent man on the team all afternoon. He started the performance by leading off the first inning with a smashing hit and crossed the plate with the first run, followed soon after by puffing Gray and fleetfooted Motz, the latter having planted the ball down by the bulletin board for three bases. In the next inning McCarthy's single scored Shields, who has been the lucklest run-getter on the team since the Fourth of July. Kansas City straightway tied this score with four runs, only three of which were earned. They added one each in the fifth and sixth innings on errors. In the fourth inning. Shields and Phillips were waiting on third and second, but McCarthy was not ready. In the sixth Shields was again on third and Phillips might have been on second but for faulty base-running, but McCarthy was again still undecided. However, in the eighth he was due. Mills and Shields were at third and second and Mc-Carthy rapped out a line hit over second. This tied the score and McCarthy stock | fight. Attendance, 900. Score: began to boom. About this time McCarthy became prominent in the field. He dropped a hard low fly near the ground which seemed only to nerve him to greater effort. In the next four innings he smothered four terrific drives. Phillips was taking no chances and every ball pitched was a Double plays were made by Kansas City n the ninth and tenth innings and when McCarthy came to the bat there was an ominous hush. The crowd of yearning spectators were afraid even to hope. Strong men held their breath and fair women clinched their pretty hands. Pessimistic nondescripts groaned inwardly. Pitcher Daniels, who had been complimentarily spoken of all through the game as a "striker," "rioter," "plug ugly," and who, indeed, looked not unlike an all-round thug, wore a fiendish grin. He aid not even chew gum, so monumental was his self-confidence. But what did McCarthy do to him? McCarthy took a stick and tapped the plate lightly. He then straightened up for a mighty effort. The crash came like the falling of a nanging shelf full of canned fruit in the cellar. The ball started with a shriek for the knotty ground in deep center field over Nicols's head, its back hair streaming out like the tail of a comet. The people sprang up and yelled till the clerks down town in the Bates House leaped over the counter and ran out on Illinois street to learn what was up. Only another home run for Mc-Carthy and the game was won. Summary: Indianapolis. A.B. R. H. O. A. E McCarthy, 1..... 6 Henry, r..... 6 Gray, 3...... 6 Motz, 1 5

JASON BROWN HAS A PLAN TO KNIFE STOCKSLAGER AT THE FOLLS.

Has Sprung an A. P. A. Fight for the Third District Convention at North Vernon To-Day.

The Democrats of the Third district will hold their convention to-day at North Vernon. Congressman Brown concedes Stockslager's nomination. That Brown should concede his rival's nomination and come all the way down from Washington to attend the convention has made the Stockslager men suspicious. They know that Brown has kept up a lively correspondence with the postmasters and Mr. Leyden, the district chairman, ever since Stockslager defeated him at the primaries. They fear Brown has hatched up a conspiracy to bring out John Overmyer, of Jennings, as a dark horse, and cause instructed delegates to disregard their instructions. But Brown is working a different scheme. He will not try to prevent the nomination of Stockslager. To a Republican friend here he has outlined his scheme. Brown is back from Washington to handicap Stockslager in the campaign. Stockslager is to be defeated at the polls. The Brown men, who will control the organization of the convention through Leyden, will load down Stockslager with resolutions intended to create discord after the nomination is over. One of the resolutions which is to be adopted, according to programme, is a bitter anti-A. P. A. resolution. It is already drafted.

Brown appointed a number of Catholics to office, the postmaster of New Albany being one. Brown believes that he lost Floyd county on account of these appointments, and says that Stockslager took advantage of the situation; in fact, worked the A. P. A. "racket" in his own behalf. Stockslager is charged with consulting and advising the head men of the A. P. A. to defeat Brown at the polls. The Brown men think they have already turned the Catholies to vote against Stockslager. Now they will work to turn against Stockslager the A. P. A. vote also. With these two ele ments against Stockslager he will be beaten at the polis, they think. If Stockslager be nominated on a strong anti-A. P. A. platform he will be charged with having trifled with that strong organization. The A. P. A. will say that if he had enough delegates to get the nomination he had also enough to table an anti-A. P. A. resolution. On the other hand, if an anti-A. P. A. resolution be offered and voted down the solid Catholic vote will be thrown against Stockslager at the polls. The committee on resolutions will be packed by Chairman Leyden, and there will be no trouble to have that committee report everything Brown wants. Why should Layden desire to see Stockslager defeated at the polls is easily explained. Leyden is a hold-over Senator. He is ambitious to go to Congress after his senatorial term expires. He is a wealthy man, a bachelor and a man of leisure. He would make an ideal Democratic Congressman. Leyden is aware that it is customary to give a Congressman at least two terms, and Stockslager will be able to secure a second term if he pulls through this year. With Stockslager defeated at the polls in a district over three thousand Democratic Leyden sees a clearer field for himself in 1896. Brown only wants revenge.

ANOTHER STORY.

Brown Wants a Number of Delegates Added to the List.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SEYMOUR, Ind., July 11.-That Jason B. Brown and his friends have not given up the congressional fight grows more perceptible every hour. The scheme which they have in contemplation to spring on the he has the faculty of pulling out of some very tight places. It is an evident fact that Brown is in control of all the political machinery in the Third district, which is willing to do anything at his bidding. All the Brown cohorts will be in attendance at the convention, and if it is in their power Hon. S. M. Stockslager will not receive the nomination. The ratio of delegates selected to the convention was based on one to every two hundred votes cast for Governor Matthews. The campaign for the nomination was made on this ratio. After Stockslager had secured enough votes to nominate him the State committee met and fixed the ratio at one for every 175 votes. The scheme will be to compel the convention to admit as many delegates to the convention as the State committee allowed. Brown men have been actively at work for the past week in getting men who are not delegates, but are from the counties which are for Brown, to attend the convention, so that if they carry their point they will have men to fill up the delegations according to the allotment which each county will be entitled to. Should the scheme work, it will place Stockslager at a disadvantage, as most of the counties are so remote from the place of the convention that it is not likely that more than the regularly selected delegates will attend. The Brown men will insist that the delegates from each county must reside in the county in order to be permitted to vote. and they will not permit a vote to be cast unless a delegate is in his seat. That there is a feeling of buoyancy existing among the Brown adherents cannot be denied, and it will be impossible for Stockslager to receive the nomination should their present plans be carried out. If they are successful in forcing the convention to adopt the new ratio, there will be 122 delegates instead of 107, as selected. It will require sixty-seven to nominate under the new, instead of fifty-four. If the Stockslager forces attend the convention in sufficient numbers to prevent the scheme to carry he will receive the nomination. If they do not, there is no hope for him, as he will not be able to muster more than fifty-eight votes. Populists Nominate M. C. Rankin.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 11 .- The Populists of this congressional district have nominated, at an informal mass convention. Morton C. Rankin, treasurer of the Populist national committee. CORNERSTONE CEREMONIES.

Fourth Presbyterian Church Building Is Now Under Way.

The ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, which is in the course of erection at the corner of Tenth and Alabama streets, in Morton

Place, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. A few over a hundred of the members and friends of the church and congregation gathered to witness the ceremony. Some rough boards with benches compared with last year, there is enough | furnished seats for a few, and the others stood about shielded by umbrellas and parasols. The church foundation is of rough stone and the brick is pressed. The cornerstone is yellow, and cut in graceful characters is "Erected A. D. 1894." Rev. George L. Mackintosh, pastor of the church. gave a list of the articles which would be placed in the stone, saying that they were for history and he hoped that it would be five hundred years before the stone would be opened. In the two tin boxes which will be inclosed in the stone are the historical sketch of the church, which was prepared by Miss Catherine Merrill, copies of all the newspapers of the State, a copper plate containing the names of the officers of the church, the building committee, architects and builders, a photograph of the old Fourth Presbyterian Church, a collection of United States postage stamps, programmes of the missionary societies, the Y. P. S. C. E. and a copy of the Y. P. S. C. E. paper, a list of officers and members of the Sunday school and a list of the members of the church. Mr. George G. Dyer presented Mrs. V. K. Hendricks with a silver trowel, an which was engraved.

"Presented to Mrs. V. K. Hendricks at the laying of the cornerstone of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, July 11, 1894." The stone was then laid and Mrs. Hendricks used the trowel in smoothing the cement. Rev. Frank C. Hood, pastor of the East Washington-street Presbyterian Church, made a short talk. In regard to Mr. Mackintosh he said: "There are some of you who may doubt his theology, but never his ability to superintend a building. A member of my congregation was talking to me of the new church, and he spoke in high praise of the supervising architect. When asked for a description of the man he gave the exact description of Mr. Mack-intosh." Mr. Hood had spoken to one of the members of the silver trowel, and said that the church must be rich. The answer came that the church was rich in faith. He closed with congratulations and good wishes to the pastor and congrega-Rev. E. A. Allen, of the Sixth Presbyterian, being introduced, said that he knew that one of the best elders that the Fourth church had had came from the Sixth church, and he knew of others who lived in the vicinity of the new church who would probably go into it. He mentioned the porsperity which had come to the Fourth Church and wished it Godspeed. The next one to come forward was Rev. J. A. Rondthaler, of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church. Mr. Rondthaler gave one of his characteristic addresses. He recounted how the church had begun in the southern part of the city, had come further north and now was at the confines of civilization. He told the story of old Dr. Muchmore, who gave a definition of a Presbyterian. First there was the Methodist, who built for solidity, then the Episcopalian, who built for show, and after these had been gathered into folds, there were the limping, the lame and the lazy, and these were the Presbyterians, Mr. Rondthaler said that the old definition of Dr. Muchmore would not do for to-day. He remarked that he was glad to see that the elders were being promoted from the Sixth church to the Fourth, and that the more diamonds in the rough that the Sixth would send up the Fourth would take pleasure in making smooth. He gave an amusing account of the building time in church being the most peaceable time. All was harmony then, and when the bricks and rafters were criticised it did not hurt the bricks and rafters, which let the criticisms fall off like so much rain. Mr. Mackintosh said that it had been announced that he would make the principal address, but he simply thanked those who had attended and those who had taken part. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. F. C. Hood. The historical sketch written by Miss Merrill was not read. The Fourth Church was begun in 1851 by a number of members withdrawing from the Second Presbyterian Church. Not as many went as was expected, so that at the beginning there was at the corner of Delaware and Market streets. The first pastor was Rev. J. and was succeeded by Rev. G. Marshall, who was one of the most beloved pastors. He was with the church eight years. The church was not built till 1857 and it was dedicated in September of that year. Mr. Morran followed and Rev. E. B. Mason came soon after and was the pastor for seven or eight years. Rev. A. H. Carrier came next and stayed seven years, then there were some short pastorates by Rev. George McNutt, Rev. E. Whallon and the last one is Rev. G. L. Mackintosh. After the members moved from Market and Delaware streets they worshiped in a barn on East Pratt street till their church was built. When the congregation went there it had $40,000. When it left it sold the place for $14,000 and was in debt. The new church starts in with more to encourage it than it has had for many years. There is peace and harmony and an increasing membership, while its location is very fine and the future looks very prosperous.

PIERRE, S. D., July 11 .- This was the hottest day in the history of the city-110 degrees in the shade. A terrible prairie fire is raging west across the Missouri river. A strip several miles wide and over forty miles long has burned since last night. The fire is still raging and a high wind blowing. The people in Fort Pierre are ditching around the city. Took a Little Morphine.

Last night, about 10 o'clock, Henry Tutewiler, residing at No. 401 North Mississippi street, discovered a young colored woman lying on the sidewalk in front of his house. She was in a semi-conscious condition and he decided she had taken morphine. He questioned her, but she refused to state who she was or where she lived. He had her taken into his house, after which he notified the City Dispensary, The young woman still remained very obstinate, though she was rapidly regaining her senses. The ambulance and a paysician went to the house, but when she still persisted in remaining silent, she was taken to the police station. However as she had committed no crime, Superintendent Powell would not allow her to be placed in the police station, Close questioning at this point revealed that her name was Nora Carter and that she lived on North Illinois street, near North street. She was removed to her home. She admitted that she took a small dose of morphine on account of reverses in love. Escaped from an Infirmary. Louis Harris was found at the Union Station yesterday afternoon by patrolmen Bolen and Spearing in an exhausted condition from a number of epileptic fits. He was removed to the police station. A number of prominent Hebrews learned of the unfortunate man's condition and went to his aid. They found that he had been confined in an infirmary in Ohlo, and had evidently escaped from there yesterday morning. His nome is in St. Louis. His baggage was checked for this city. Measts. Feibleman and Sellg took charge of Harris, and last night sent him home. Harris will afterwards be returned to the infirmary. He Was a Terror to Newsboys. Patrolman Conklin arrested Herbert Johnson, colored, yesterday on a charge of petit larceny. The negro hails from Louisville. He is fourteen years old. He rifled the pockets of newsboys in this city while swimming. One boy lost $2.82 in this man-ner Tuesday. When he discovered his loss he accused Johnson of being the thief, whereupon the latter beat him until the former said that he would forget every-thing and not tell the police. "Dixey" also stole $1.03 from a second newsboy yesterday. He also forcibly took papers from small newsboys and sold them.

Brazen Petty Larceny. Yesterday evening one of three young men stole a wrench from the rear of a plumbing shop on East Washington street. The three then went around to the front part of the store and attempted to sell the wrench to the proprietor. He recognized his property and summoned patrolmen Laird and Woodward, who arrested the three, who gave their names as Dan Kinney, Thomas Long and Henry Sheridan. The Trouble That Time Brought. Frank Burns entered the office of Dr. Ryan, No. 153 Massachusetts avenue, Tuesday while the latter was in a rear room, seized a clock that was on a shelf, ran down the avenue and disappeared before the doctor was aware of his loss. The matter was rep rted to the police and yes-terday detectives Doherty and McGuff arrested Burns.

An Arrest at Selking's. Gus Kiefer, bartender at Selking's Cottage Park, at Fall creek and Illinois streets, was arrested last night by patrolmen Balcom and Cronin on a charge of selling without a license. The saloon end of the park, as claimed by the police, has been run since it was organized without a license. The Astragal Completed.

The naval astragal which adorns the soldiers' and sailors' monument received First Race-One mile. Marguerite, 4 to 1, the finishing touches at noon yesterday.
